

Generations Crossing Intergenerational Day Care
Laurie Deavers, Director

Generations Crossing
3765 Taylor Spring Lane
Harrisonburg, VA 22801
540-434-4901
director@generationscrossing.com

Generations Crossing has created an intergenerational day care program where 24 adults enjoy daily interaction with children in a single facility.

Our 11,400 building was designed to meet the unique needs of this multi-age population so that scheduled activities planned by our Intergenerational Program Coordinator are easily supplemented by casual interactions. Older adults light up with excitement when the infant buggy rolls into their room for a visit, and preschoolers love having a ready audience when they want to perform a new song.

The only adult day care service in our region, Generations Crossing was founded eight years ago through a collaboration of area agencies serving older adults. Funding from the Virginia Department for the Aging's Respite Care Grant, four local foundations, and many individuals made the new building possible in 2008. Ongoing support from the United Way and our community hospital provides scholarship dollars to assure that no participant, child or adult, is turned away for financial reasons.

Established as an independent non-profit agency, operations and financial management are closely monitored by a volunteer board of directors.